SUNDA PANGOLIN FACTS

Pangolins are special animals that live naturally in Singapore's rainforests. Discover the adaptations that make them unique!

Hard Scales for Protection

The pangolin has hard scales as its body covering. The scales act as armour to keep it safe from predator attacks.

Curls Up When Danger Comes

A pangolin's belly is the only part of its body that is not covered in scales. When it feels scared, it curls into a ball to protect its soft belly.

Active at Night

The pangolin lives in Singapore's rainforests. It sleeps in the day and comes out at night to look for food when it's cooler and quieter.

Long, Sticky Tongue to Forage

The pangolin's long, tongue and sticky saliva help it to slurp up ants and termites with ease.

They can eat up to 10,000 ants in one day!

If you want to spot pangolins in the wild, the best time is during a walk when the sun is setting!

A large, rounded rectangular sign template with a dashed border. Inside, the words 'TEAM' and 'PANGOLIN' are written in a very thick, bubbly, brown-outlined font. The letters are white and have a slightly irregular, hand-drawn appearance. The word 'TEAM' is on the top line and 'PANGOLIN' is on the bottom line, both centered.
